WEDONIA.

William Neal of Lexington was in our midst last week:

A large crowd attended the burial of Marshall Hughes last week. William Cook, after a three weeks spell of sickness, is convalescent. Johnnie Keith of Lexington visited his sister here Saturday and Sunday.

William A. Steele was called to the bedside of his father in Hopkinsville the past week, who has been very low and who has since passed away. R. Wells will begin in a few days to build a picket fence around his farm. He has contracted his wire from R. B. & E. E. Cord. He will use about 1,000

Miss Lyde Hord, one of Wedonia's charming young ladies, left a few days ago for a two weeks' visit to friends and relatives at Millersburg and Paris. She will also attend Parks Hill Camp-meeting.

Misses Annie Gess of Lexington, Anna Prewith of Mt. Sterling, Lula Thompson of Paris, and Fannie Frazee of Maysville, who have been the guests of Miss May Hord for several days, returned to their respective homes Saturday.

R. B. & E. E. Cord have one more of those nice carts left. They will sell it to the highest bidder next Saturday, August 20th, at 4 o'clock. It is one of the best carts in the world. Remember the cart sells to the highest bidder. Terms cash.

The ladies of the Helena Missionary and Mite Society will give an open session in the M. E. Church at that place on next Saturday night, August 20th. Re-freshments of all kinds served. Everybody cordially invited to attend. Proceeds go for the benefit of the church.

THE CAPTURE OF JEFF DAVIS.

As Told by the Widow of the Leader of the Lost Cause.

Many falsehoods have been uttered in regard to the capture of Mr. Davis, which have been exposed in publications by per sons there present-by Secretary Regan by the members of my personal staff, and by the colored coachman, Jim Jones, which must have been convincing to all who desired to know the truth. were, when prisoners, subjected to petty pillage and to annoyances such as military gentlemen never commit or permit. While the camp was being plundered, which was done with great celerity, there was a shrick dreadful to hear, and our servants told us it came from a poor creature who, in prying up the lid of a trunk with his loaded musket, shot off his own hand. Out of this trunk the hooped skirt was procured, which had never been worn, but which they purported to have removed from Mr. Davis's person. No hooped skirt could have been worn on our journey, even by me, with-out great inconvenience, and I had none with me, except the new one in the trunk. I have long since ceased to com-bat falsehood when it has been uttered and scattered broadcast at much less distance than this one has been borne on the wings of hate and vilification, and I now rest the case, though, could the tor-ture wantonly inflicted when he was a helpless prisoner have been averted from my husband by any disguise, I should gladly have tried to persuade him to assume it; and who shall say the stratagem would not have been legitimate? I would have availed myself of a Scotch cap and cloak or any other expedient to avert from him the awful consequences of his capture.

When we had traveled back a day's drive, as we were about to get into the wagons a man galloped into camp waving over his head a printed slip of paper. One of our servants told us it was Mr. Johnson's proclamation of a reward for Mr. Davis's capture as the accessory to Mr. Lincoln's assassination. I was much shocked, but Mr. Davis was quite unconcerned, and said: "The miserable scoundrel who issued that proclamation knew better than these men that it was false. Of course such an accusation must fall at once: it may, however, render these

There was a perceptible change in the manner of the soldiers from this time, and the jibes and insults heaped upon us as they passed by, notwithstanding Colo-nel Pritchard's efforts to suppress the ex-pression of their detestation, were hard to bear. Bitterest among these was an officer named Hudson. He informed me that he intended to take our poor little portege as his own, and solicitude for the child troubled us more than Hudson's in-

It is needless to say that as the men stood at their less to say that as the men stood at their case they expressed in words unfit for woman's ears all that malice could suggest. In about an hour Colonel Pritchard returned, and with him came a brigade who testified their belief in Mr. Davia's guilt in the same manner.

Men may be forgiven who, actuated by prejudice, exhibit bitterness in the first hours of their triamph, but what exceed can be offered for one who, in cold blood, deliberately organizes tortures to be inner who, the whole South proudly re-members, though reduced to death's door, unto the end neither recanted his faith. fawned upon his persecutor, nor pleaded

Kindness Appreciated.

The following is a pleasant little incident of the trip of the Knights Templars as related by The Rocky Mountain News:"There was a pleasant incident at the parlors of the American House at 8 o'clock last evening. The members of Maysville Commandery No. 10, came from Krntucky by the Ohio and Mississippi and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe lines in a train of chartered Pullmans, and accompanying the Knights were Messrs. Thomas A. Garrigan and George T. Gunnip, agents for the respect-ive roads. In consideration of their kindness the Commandery presented each of the gentlemen with an elegant gold headed cane and each of their wives with a pair of gold cuff buttons. V. E. Sir Warren Lake Thomas, Grand Generalissimo of the G. E. W. S., made the pre sentation speech in well measured terms, and the recipients responded in a like
